Fuller lips and more prominent cheekbones are the work of a good doctor — not good genes!

IGGY AZALEA'S SECRET SURGERY!

HOW RAP'S NEWEST IT GIRL MADE SURE HER BODY WAS "NO MEDIOCRE!"

THERE'S a tiny thunder down under Iggy Azalea's blouse. The Australian rapper was so convinced about being on stage at the American Music Awards next to the "perfect" Jennifer Lopez for their "Booty"-ful performance, sources tell Star, Iggy dashed to the plastic surgeons for a last-minute boost.

"Iggy has always wanted bigger boobs, and there's something about J.Lo that makes you second-guess your body," says an insider, revealing that the 24-year-old opted for the new zero-downtime "Flash Recovery" breast augmentation, pioneered by L.A. surgeon Dr. Ashkan Gravani, who tweeted a picture with Iggy on Nov. 4. "She didn't palling with her breasts," added the source. "Right now, she's a full B-cup."

But Iggy didn't stop there. The source says she sharpened her baby face with fat injections to her cheeks, plus lip injections to perfect her pout. "Iggy wanted to feel more feminine," the source added. "She has the booty and wanted the rest to go with it!"

But her famous backside may have also been the work of a talented surgeon. "It looks like Iggy has had a buttocks-augmentation [or "bedunc]," says NYC plastic surgeon Dr. Norman Rowe. "It looks like an actual implant — fat transfer would not provide the volume she appears to have."

Now, says the source, Iggy is embracing her newly purchased curves. "She loves how she looks, and her boyfriend Nick [Young] is just as pleased. She's feeling sexier than ever." ■
